FOREWORD

THE genealogy contained in this book is the result of leisure hours of research covering a period of ten years.

More than two hundred years have passed since Dieterich Kober, the ancestor of the herein described Kober-Cover-Coover Family, arrived at the port of Philadelphia, Pa. He settled in Lancaster county, Pa., and his descendants migrated chiefly westward into the several counties of southern Pennsylvania, and later as far west as the Pacific coast, seeking pioneer homesteads. Some members of the Kober family kept family records; others neglected this prudent conventional custom, and their names are lost to history. Quite a few descendants of pioneer settlers are without the knowledge of their ancestral connection, and do not know to which branch of the family tree they belong.

This neglect of records reduces the history of the family to a limited genealogy.

And this condition is intensified by the indifference of a few who take no interest in family history, and make no response to inquiries relative to immediate family connections.

Despite these limiting conditions, a large and relatively comprehensive lineage history has been collected and compiled, and many branches are definitely traced to their ancestral sources.

The compiler of these records expresses grateful appreciation of the helpfulness rendered by interested representative members of the family who have taken pains to record and report their several ancestral branches.

As the members in the family in the United States cover eight generations, the generation of each family group is indicated by alphabetical letters from A to H, leaving to the index of names to locate the page on which the individual's name and lineage are recorded.

It is hoped that future researches and discoveries may fill up the gaps, and make relatively complete the genealogy of the Kober-Cover-Coover Family.

II

The Kober-Cover-Coover Family

Seventy-seven Palatine Immigrants, who with their families, numbered in all 260 persons, arrived Aug. 29, 1730 at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the ship Thistle of Glasgow, Colin Dunlop, Master from Rotterdam, but last from Dover.

Among these two hundred and sixty names is found the name of DIETERICH KOBER.

The port of clearance was Dover, and the date of departure June 19, 1730. The arrival at the port of Philadelphia was on the 29th day of August, 1730.

The male passengers of the ship, from sixteen years of age and upward, after debarking, proceeded at once to the city courthouse in Philadelphia, and subscribed their names under oath to two declarations before the Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania, and several city magistrates.

The first subscription was to the Oath of Allegiance, and the second, to the Oath of Abjuration and Fidelity. Three lists of names of the adult male passengers were recorded: list 11 A. is the captain's list, and the names are indifferently, and sometimes errantly spelled, due to verbal announcement; lists 11 B. and 11 C. contain the names subscribed by the individual passengers in their own hand. Photostat facsimiles of these subscribed names have been taken from the originals, and these originals are the source of the correct male passenger list.

The name KOBER is identified with COOVER from several sources :

First, Rupp Family Record, page 223: "John B. COOVER, born 1800, son of Dietrich KOBER, a Cumberland county farmer, was married to Elizabeth Rupp." The marriage took place in the stone mansion on Trindle Spring road, near Shiremanstown, Pa.

Second, History of Cumberland County, by I. Daniel Rupp, page 357. Published 1846.

Manor of Paxton, or Louthier, surveyed and sold in 1765-67.

"Tract No. 27, 243 acres, and No. 28, 180 acres, first to Jacob Miller, afterwards to Long and Kobers (Coovers), now Jacob Long, Reeser, Graaf, Shopp, late John Bitner and others."

This Manor Tract embraces land in Cumberland County, located between the two creeks, ConodoguINETTE and Callapasscink, now Yellow Breeches creek, extending from the Susquehanna river as far west as the road by Friedens Kirche, Peace Church, on the Trindle Spring Road, near Shiremanstown, Pa.

The tract was originally owned by the Susquehanna Indians, but their claim was contested by the Shawanese tribes, called brothers by the Iriquois. The claims were settled by action of the State Court, and the tract was surveyed and sold in 1765-1767.

The land, however, had been slowly occupied by white settlers, with the permission of the Indians, as early as 1730-1731.

Sections of this tract, No. 27 and No. 28, were owned and occupied by Gideon Coover and his son Jacob.

Third: John Egedius Kober, son of (John) Dieterich Kober, was baptized by the Rev. John Caspar Stoeber, immigrant (1727) Lutheran pastor, Dec. 24, 1738. In later years Egedius bore the name anglicized to Gideon, and in his military record the name appears both Gideon, and Jedian Cover.

Pennsylvania Archives,
Fifth Series, Vol. VI, pp. 221, 227.

Gideon Cover (Coover) was a private in the Cumberland County Militia, Third Battalion, 6th Company, Class 7, 1780.

His tombstone located in St. John's Cemetery, near Shiremans-town, Pa., bears the following inscription:

Sacred to the memory of Gideon Coover,
who was born
December 17th 1738.
Departed this life
March 15th, 1810
Aged 72 years, 2 months
and 28 days.

Buried by the side of Gideon Coover lies his son Jacob Coover, who was one of the founders of old Peace Church Sunday School, organized in 1825, and was its first president.

In the records of this school Jacob's name is spelled both Cover and Coover. Old Peace Church was built in 1798, and its constitution provides that only the German language shall forever be used in the services of the church.

In the exercises of the Sunday School Jacob Coover used English hymns, and by this means gradually introduced the English tongue into the services of both the Sunday School and the congregation.

Plattdeutsch was the mother tongue of the Lutheran and Reformed Churches, and the growing general use of English among the younger generation, brought about the anglicizing of proper names, as well as the use of English in general assemblies.

The spelling of the name Kober became variable and passed through the forms of Cober, Kover, Cover, and Coover.

The additional o was deemed necessary to distinguish the proper name from the common noun and verb, Cover, although the proper name COOVER was still pronounced COVER, and many members of this family still spell their name COVER. It seems that it was during the lifetime and in the records of Jacob Coover, chiefly, that the additional o was used in spelling the proper name, and yet the said Jacob Coover, son of Gideon Coover, himself spelled his name both Cover and Coover.

The following Palatine Immigrants, probably not related to the above Dieterich Kober, arrived at the Philadelphia port, whose descendants are not traceable at this writing:

PAUL KOBER, Immigrant on the ship Richmond, from Rotterdam.
Captain Charles Younghusband commanding. Nov.
29, 1766.

This Paul Kober is not to be identified with Paul Cover, traditional son of Dieterich Kober, immigrant of Aug. 29, 1730, who married Barbara Herrman, as on record in old Zion Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, Pa., June 8, 1760.

BERNHART KOBER, Palatine immigrant on the ship Francis and Elizabeth, from Rotterdam, Sept. 21, 1742.

DANIEL KOBER, Immigrant on the ship Two Brothers, from Rotterdam, Sept. 15, 1748.

ADAM KOBER,

CHRISTIAN KOBER,

HANS ADAM KOBER, Immigrants on ship Edinburg from Amsterdam, Sept. 16, 1751.

JACOB KUEBER, Immigrant on ship Edinburg from Amsterdam, Sept. 19, 1752.

Of much value is the Baptismal and Marriage Record of the Lutheran immigrant pastor, the Rev. John Caspar Stoeber, covering the years 1730 to 1779. Published from the original records, 1896.

It is in this record that we learn of the location of (John) Dietrich Kober, as farmer in Lebanon (then Lancaster) county, after his arrival in this country, and of the baptism of five of his children.

III

Identification of (John) Dieterich Kober

1. A. DIETERICH KOBER, Palatine immigrant, arrived in Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29, 1730, on the ship Thistle from Rotterdam, but last from Dover.

Clearance from Dover, June 19, 1730, qualified Aug. 29, 1730, by taking the Oath of Allegiance, sworn to before the Hon. Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania, and several city magistrates in the city courthouse of Philadelphia, certified by the written declaration of Robert Charles, clerk of the Council.

The signature of Dieterich Kober is entered upon two book records: first, to the Oath of Allegiance, List 11 B; second, to the Oath of Abjuration and Fidelity, List 11 C.

These records are preserved in the Archives of the State Library, Harrisburg, Pa.

Photostat facsimiles of the German script have been taken and edited by Strassburger & Hinke, and appear in Pennsylvania German Pioneers, 3 Vols. Published by the Pennsylvania German Society, 1934.

The English translation of the subscribed names appears in Vol. I, List 11 B, page 33; and List 11 C, page 34.

The Photostat Facsimiles of the German Script appear in Vol. 11, List 11 B, page 22, and List 11 C, page 24. See also

Baptismal and Marriage Record
of
Rev. John Caspar Stoever,
Immigrant Lutheran Pastor,
1728-1779

The identity of Dieterich Kober as ancestor of the Kober-Cover-Coover Family is certified by the records of pastor John Caspar Stoever, who baptized five of the children of Dieterich Kober in the presence of sponsors, and by family records from the hand of Dieterich Kober's descendants.

It is of interest to note that the sponsors at the baptism of Dieterich Kober's children were all Palatine immigrants. John Egedius Hoffman and his wife stood as sponsors at the baptism of two of the children, and Dieterich Kober's son, John Egedius, was named for him, and said John Egedius Hoffman was a fellow passenger to America in the ship Thistle with Dieterich Kober.

The duty of a sponsor at baptism involved particular observance of the child's education and training, and would not be assumed by a stranger, nor even a near neighbor, but by a near relative. It seems more than possible that John Egedius Hoffman was a relative of Dieterich Kober and his wife either by kinship, or by marriage connection.

Family of (John) Dietrich Kober

IV

JOHN DIETERICH KOBER, Palatine immigrant, was born in 1703 somewhere in Germany, or Switzerland.

He came to America on the ship Thistle, sailing from Rotterdam, and arrived at Philadelphia, Pa., August 29, 1730. From the family baptismal records connected with the ministry of the Rev. John Caspar Stoeber, immigrant Lutheran pastor, it seems that John Dieterich Kober settled in Lebanon county, then Lancaster county, Pa., where his family grew up, and whence they scattered to pioneer settlements. He died in 1791, and his original burial place is now forgotten.

One hundred and twenty-six years after his arrival in America, and sixty-five years after his burial, his remains together with the remains of his wife Catharine, and of his son George and his wife Elizabeth, were taken up in 1856 and reinterred in one grave in the Keller-Coover burial plot, called "Barbace," near Mechanicsburg, Pa.

John Dieterich Kober married Anna Catharina (probably Hoffman), who died in 1782, nine years before the death of her husband, and a period of seventy-four years elapsed between her original burial and her reinterment in Barbace cemetery.

The reasons for this very late reinterment can now only be surmised. Perhaps the home farm was sold in the third generation of Coovers, and the new proprietors desired, or stipulated, that the graves be removed from the home garden plot, or nearby field.

It seems probable that John Dieterich Coover lived his latter years with his son George, who with his wife Elizabeth also rested in this same home plot, and both likewise, after the lapse of more than thirty years, were reinterred in the fourfold grave in Barbace cemetery.

John Dieterich Kober had a son, and a grandson, named Dieterich, and it is apparent that our forebear Dieterich in his latter years used his baptismal praenomen, John, and his grandchildren called him, grandfather John.

The youngest son of George Coover I, was named John after his grandfather. This grandson John married Salome Keller, daughter of Martin Keller. In 1856, six years before his own decease, John Coover reinterred the remains of both his parents and grandparents in one grave in the Keller-Coover cemetery, namely, Barbace.

After the burial in Barbace in 1883 of Salome Keller Coover, who survived her husband twenty-one years, this "Barbace" (Keller-Coover) cemetery, was closed to all future interments.

2. B. (1) ANNA ELIZABETHA, born May 12, 1734; baptized July 21, 1734. Sponsors: John Adam Heyl and his wife.
3. B. (2) JOHN EGEDIUS, born Dec. 18, 1738; baptized Dec. 24, 1738. Sponsors: Egedius Hoffman and his wife.

In later years the name Egedius was anglicized to Gideon, and in his military record his name is spelled both Gideon and Jedian Cover.

He married Frances (Feronicas) Stahle, of Lebanon, or Harrisburg, Pa. They had nine children recorded.

Gideon Cover (Coover) was buried in St. John's cemetery, near Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, Pa., his death having occurred at the Cedar Spring farm, several miles distant from the cemetery. His tombstone bears the name, Gideon Coover, born Dec. 17, 1738, died March 15, 1810.

The discrepancy of one day in the date of his birth as given at his baptism, and on his tombstone, is probably due to his being born late in the night of Dec. 17th.

Military record: He was a private in the Cumberland county Militia, Third Battalion, 6th Company, Class 7, year 1780. Captain James McCurdy.

Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series,
Vol. VI, pp. 221, 227.

4. B. (3) (JOHN) GEORGE, born Jan 27, 1741, baptized Feb. 22, 1741. Sponsors: John Egedius Hoffman and his wife. He married Elizabeth Mohler, by whom he had ten children.

Military record: George Cober, private in the Cumberland county Militia, Third Battalion, Class 8, 1782. Captain Andrew Ream.

Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series,
Vol. VII, pp. 315, and 318.

5. B. (4) ANNA MARGARETHA, born May 13, 1743, baptized May 23, 1743. Sponsors: Thomas Kreul and his wife. Buried at Ephrata farm.

6. B. (5) DIETRICH II, born Aug. 20, 1745, in Lancaster county, Pa., a farmer and blacksmith by occupation; married June 2, 1768, to Maria Hauck (Hauk). Late in life, at the age of seventy-six years, he married Salome Horning, Feb. 12, 1822.

Much interested in public education, he built of logs the first public school house in Upper Allen township, Cumberland county, Pa., on his own property.

When Gen. George Washington went west to suppress the Whiskey Insurrection, his horses were shod by Dietrich Kober at a forge in Lisburn, near Harrisburg, Pa., and the family tradition says he was never paid for the service.

Whether this lack of payment was due to the neglect of the government, or to the declination of Dietrich Kober to accept payment, tradition has not been definite.

His known children are: Dietrich III, Jacob, Solomon, and probably, Christian.

Dietrich Kober II, has no baptismal record, and no military record. It is probable that his valued work as a blacksmith gave him exemption from military service.

7. B. (6) (JOHN) MICHAEL, born Nov. 30, 1748, died Aug. 23, 1843; baptized Nov. 27, 1749. Sponsors: David Fischer and his wife. He married Maria Zimmerman (Carpenter). Five children were born to them.

Military record: Michael Kober, or Cover, or Kover, served as private in the Lancaster county Militia, Battalions Fifth and Tenth, Companies First and Eighth, Class 2.

Captain William Crawford, commanding; years 1777-1779, 1780-1781.

Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series,
Vol. VII, pp. 470, 474, 988, 994.

The following traditional members of the family of Dieterich Kober have no baptismal record.

8. B. PAUL COVER, or KOBER, married Barbara Herrman in Philadelphia, Pa., June 8, 1760. Record of old Zion Lutheran Church, Philadelphia. No military record.

In 1780 he is recorded as one of the taxable residents of Bucks county. In the census for Pennsylvania, 1790, George Adam Kover is recorded as a resident in the same county, and is possibly a son of Paul Cover.

Jacob Cover, who came later from Bucks county to Dauphin county, is possibly the son of George Adam Kover, and grandson of Paul Cover.

9. B. ADAM COVER, or KOBER, private in the Lancaster county Militia, 1778-1782, 7th Battalion, 5th Company, Class 7. Captain Noah Ceasy.

In the census of 1790 Adam Cover is reported as resident in Dauphin county.

Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series,
Vol. VII, pp. 201, 718, 763, 789.

10. B. ANDREW COVER, or KOBER, private in the Cumberland county Militia, First Battalion, 4th Company, Class 4, 1780-1781. Captain Conrad Snider.

In the census of 1790 Andrew Cover is recorded as resident in Franklin county.

Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series,
Vol. VI, pp. 87, 119.

11. B. JACOB COVER, or KOBER, private in the Cumberland county Militia, First Battalion, 4th Company, Class 2, 1780-1782. Captain Conrad Snider.

Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series,
Vol. VI, pp. 87, 118, 123.

In the census of 1790 Jacob Cover is recorded as resident in Franklin county.

This Jacob Cover is quite probably the ancestor of the Somerset county branch of the Cover family, who settled in Somerset county in 1798, and is reported as a taxable resident in 1800.

In Dauphin county in 1790 there was resident a John Cover, or Coover, with a small family, indicative of the relationship of son to Adam Cover. In Franklin county at this date two individuals bore the name, Jacob Cover, one being very probably the grandson of Dieterich Kober of 1730.

In Northumberland county at this census date lived an Andrew Coover with a large family, and from the spelling of the name we may infer sonship to Dieterich Kober of 1730, rather than the Andrew Cover resident in Franklin county at that date, although one of the families may have been of the third generation of Coovers.

Two traditional pioneer names, Peter Cover (Kober) and Samuel Cover, remain unidentified, but may be members of the third generation, grandsons of Dieterich Kober. Neither name appears on the muster rolls of the militia in the colonial era.

In all the established records of the Dieterich Kober family names, this peculiar feature is noticeable, that the baptismal praenomen, John, appears before the names of the male members of the family, and the praenomen, Anna, before the names of the female members.

From what location, or city, in Germany John Dieterich Kober emigrated, is not discoverable from present obtainable records. We only know that he came with Palatine immigrants to this country, and that his signature to the Oath of Allegiance is in German script.

It is not improbable, however, inferring from social relationship, that John Dieterich Kober was born and brought up in Switzerland.

Closely associated with him and his family was Ludwig Mohler, a prominent Swiss, who was born in Switzerland in the year 1696, came with his wife in the ship Thistle to America, Aug. 29, 1730, stood side by side with Dietrich Kober as they two gave their signatures together to the Oaths of Allegiance, and of Abjuration, and later, after settling in Lancaster county, their children and grandchildren intermarried. There is an old family tradition, that Dietrich Kober was a Swiss, and the social relationship maintained with the Mohler family in years subsequent to their arrival in Philadelphia, seems to confirm the tradition.

Among the pioneer Kobers the spelling of the name soon underwent a change; DIETERICH was shortened to DIETRICH; Michael, his son, spelled his name KOEBER, and beginning with the second generation the spelling of the name changed to KOVER, and COVER, while in the third generation the form Coover became prevalent, although the form Cover continued in general use.

These pioneer immigrants had good judgment in respect of soil fertility, and wisely selected the choice farming localities for their settlement. They were a sturdy, thrifty accession to the Pennsylvania population, invited and aided by William Penn, and his succeeding proprietors.

Samuel Cover with his younger brother John left Cumberland county, Pa., about the year 1800, and settled in Ross county, Ohio. Samuel always spelled his name Cover, or Kover; while John, his brother, spelled his name Coover.

14. C. ADAM COVER (COOVER), born in Cumberland county, Pa., May 18, 1781, died in Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 17, 1856; buried in Oak cemetery, Cover Hill, near Johnstown, Pa. His second wife was Catharine Houser (Poole), cousin of his first wife, born Feb. 28, 1806, died Feb. 16, 1849, by whom he had three children.

Jacob Coover was one of the founders who organized in 1825 the first Sunday School in Old Peace Church, Friedens Kirche, built in 1798, located near Shiremanstown, Pa., on the Trindle Spring road, and was elected the first president of the school.

Being a practical, progressive, organizing churchman in Old Peace Church, which is a Union Church of the German Reformed and Lutheran denominations, he was instrumental in introducing the English language into the Sunday school and church services.

He was buried beside his father, Gideon Coover, in St. John's cemetery adjacent to Old Peace Church. Jacob spelled his name both Cover, and Coover; his tombstone bears the name Coover.

18. C. CATHARINE COVER, born April 14, 1790, died Aug. 4, 1871, married John Eichelberger Jan. 24, 1811, who was born April 15, 1790, died May 2, 1872.

Catharine Cover was the grandmother of the Sheely brothers, Samuel, John, and Levi, sons of Andrew Sheely, of Cumberland county, Pa., farmers living near Mechanicsburg, who later lived retired in Shiremanstown, Pa.

19. C. ELIZABETH COVER, married Samuel Brenheiser. Another record says she married a Mr. Rupley.

20. C. GIDEON COOVER II, son of Gideon Coover I, and Frances Stahle, his wife, was born in 1775, died in 1823; married Jane Downs. A family tradition reports seven children born to this union. However, there are two variant lists of the family members, which contain the following names:

Adam	Jane,

Gideon, 3d	Samuel
James	William

In the above list John is the only member whose family record is at present available.

Dates of the Transfer of Property
Constituting the Adam Coover
Farm Located on Cover Hill

In 1814 Adam Cover (Coover) left Cumberland county, Pa., and went to Cambria county, where on the 4th day of May of that year he bought of Christian Good 177 acres of land in Conemaugh township, Cambria county, Pa.

Several years later, in the settlement of the bankrupt estate of George Brenizer, Sr., Adam Coover acquired land which is now part of Johnstown, situate between the rivers, Conemaugh, and Stony Creek. The following recital of land transfers relating to Cover Hill is of interest:

JUNE 20, 1776, Deed of Patent to Robert Todd by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

MARCH 12, 1785, Deed of Patent to Robert Todd, and Benjamin Rittenhouse, by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

MAY 8, 1792, Deed by Benjamin Rittenhouse to Jacob Stutzman.

JUNE 12, 1804, Deed by Jacob Stutzman to Abraham Longnecker.

AUG. 18, 1808, Deed by Abraham Longnecker to Christian Good.

MAY 4, 1814, Deed by Christian Good to Adam Coover.

In signing the agreement between Christian Good and himself on the date of May 4, 1814, Adam Cover spelled his name Coover.

Most of his signatures to legal documents subsequent to this date, give the name Cover.

In the agreement between himself and Christian Good at the purchase of a large tract of land, Aug. 16, 1828, located northwest of the Menoher Highway, he signs himself Adam Cover.

ADAM COOVER (Seal)

Sealed and delivered in the presence of

JOHN LINTON,
JAMES W. CALICAN

This mortgage document is acknowledged before Abraham Hildebrand, at that time an Associate Judge of the County.

In the transfer of this tract of land by Benjamin Rittenhouse to Jacob Stutzman in 1792, it was stipulated that of all the gold and silver ore mined on these premises, one-fifth part was to be reserved for the Commonwealth, "to be delivered at the pit's mouth clear of all charges."

Unknown at that time to all parties concerned was the value of the natural deposits of bituminous coal in these acres.

Previous to 1848 the purchasers of land, mentioned in the foregoing documents, were obligated to make payment "in lawful money of the State of Pennsylvania." But in 1848 Adam Coover stipulated to pay a purchase obligation "in lawful money of the United States."

Additional Property Bought by Adam Coover

In 1828 Adam Coover bought from Christian Good 175 acres of land and allowances for the sum of $2,900. This acreage was also a part of the Benjamin Rittenhouse tract, being a section of the original grant made to said Benjamin Rittenhouse.

The deed for this purchase from Christian Good is witnessed by Samuel Douglass and Daniel Matthews, the former being Justice of the Peace.

In 1833 Adam Coover bought an extensive tract of land, comprising about four hundred acres in Conemaugh Township, from John Ripple for the sum of $100.

Said John Ripple had acquired this tract in 1816 at a sale of unseated lands by the Treasurer of the county, Charles B. Seeley, the taxes amounting to $4.55 not having been paid by Elisha Roberts, to whom it had been purveyed. John Rhey, John Linton, and David Pryce were Commissioners of Cambria County at the time of the Treasurer's sale. In signing this document both John Ripple and his wife Sarah simply made their mark, being unable to sign their names, when the document was acknowledged before Christian Horner, Justice of the Peace, and witnessed by him and Daniel Wissinger, who also made his mark in lieu of his personal signature.

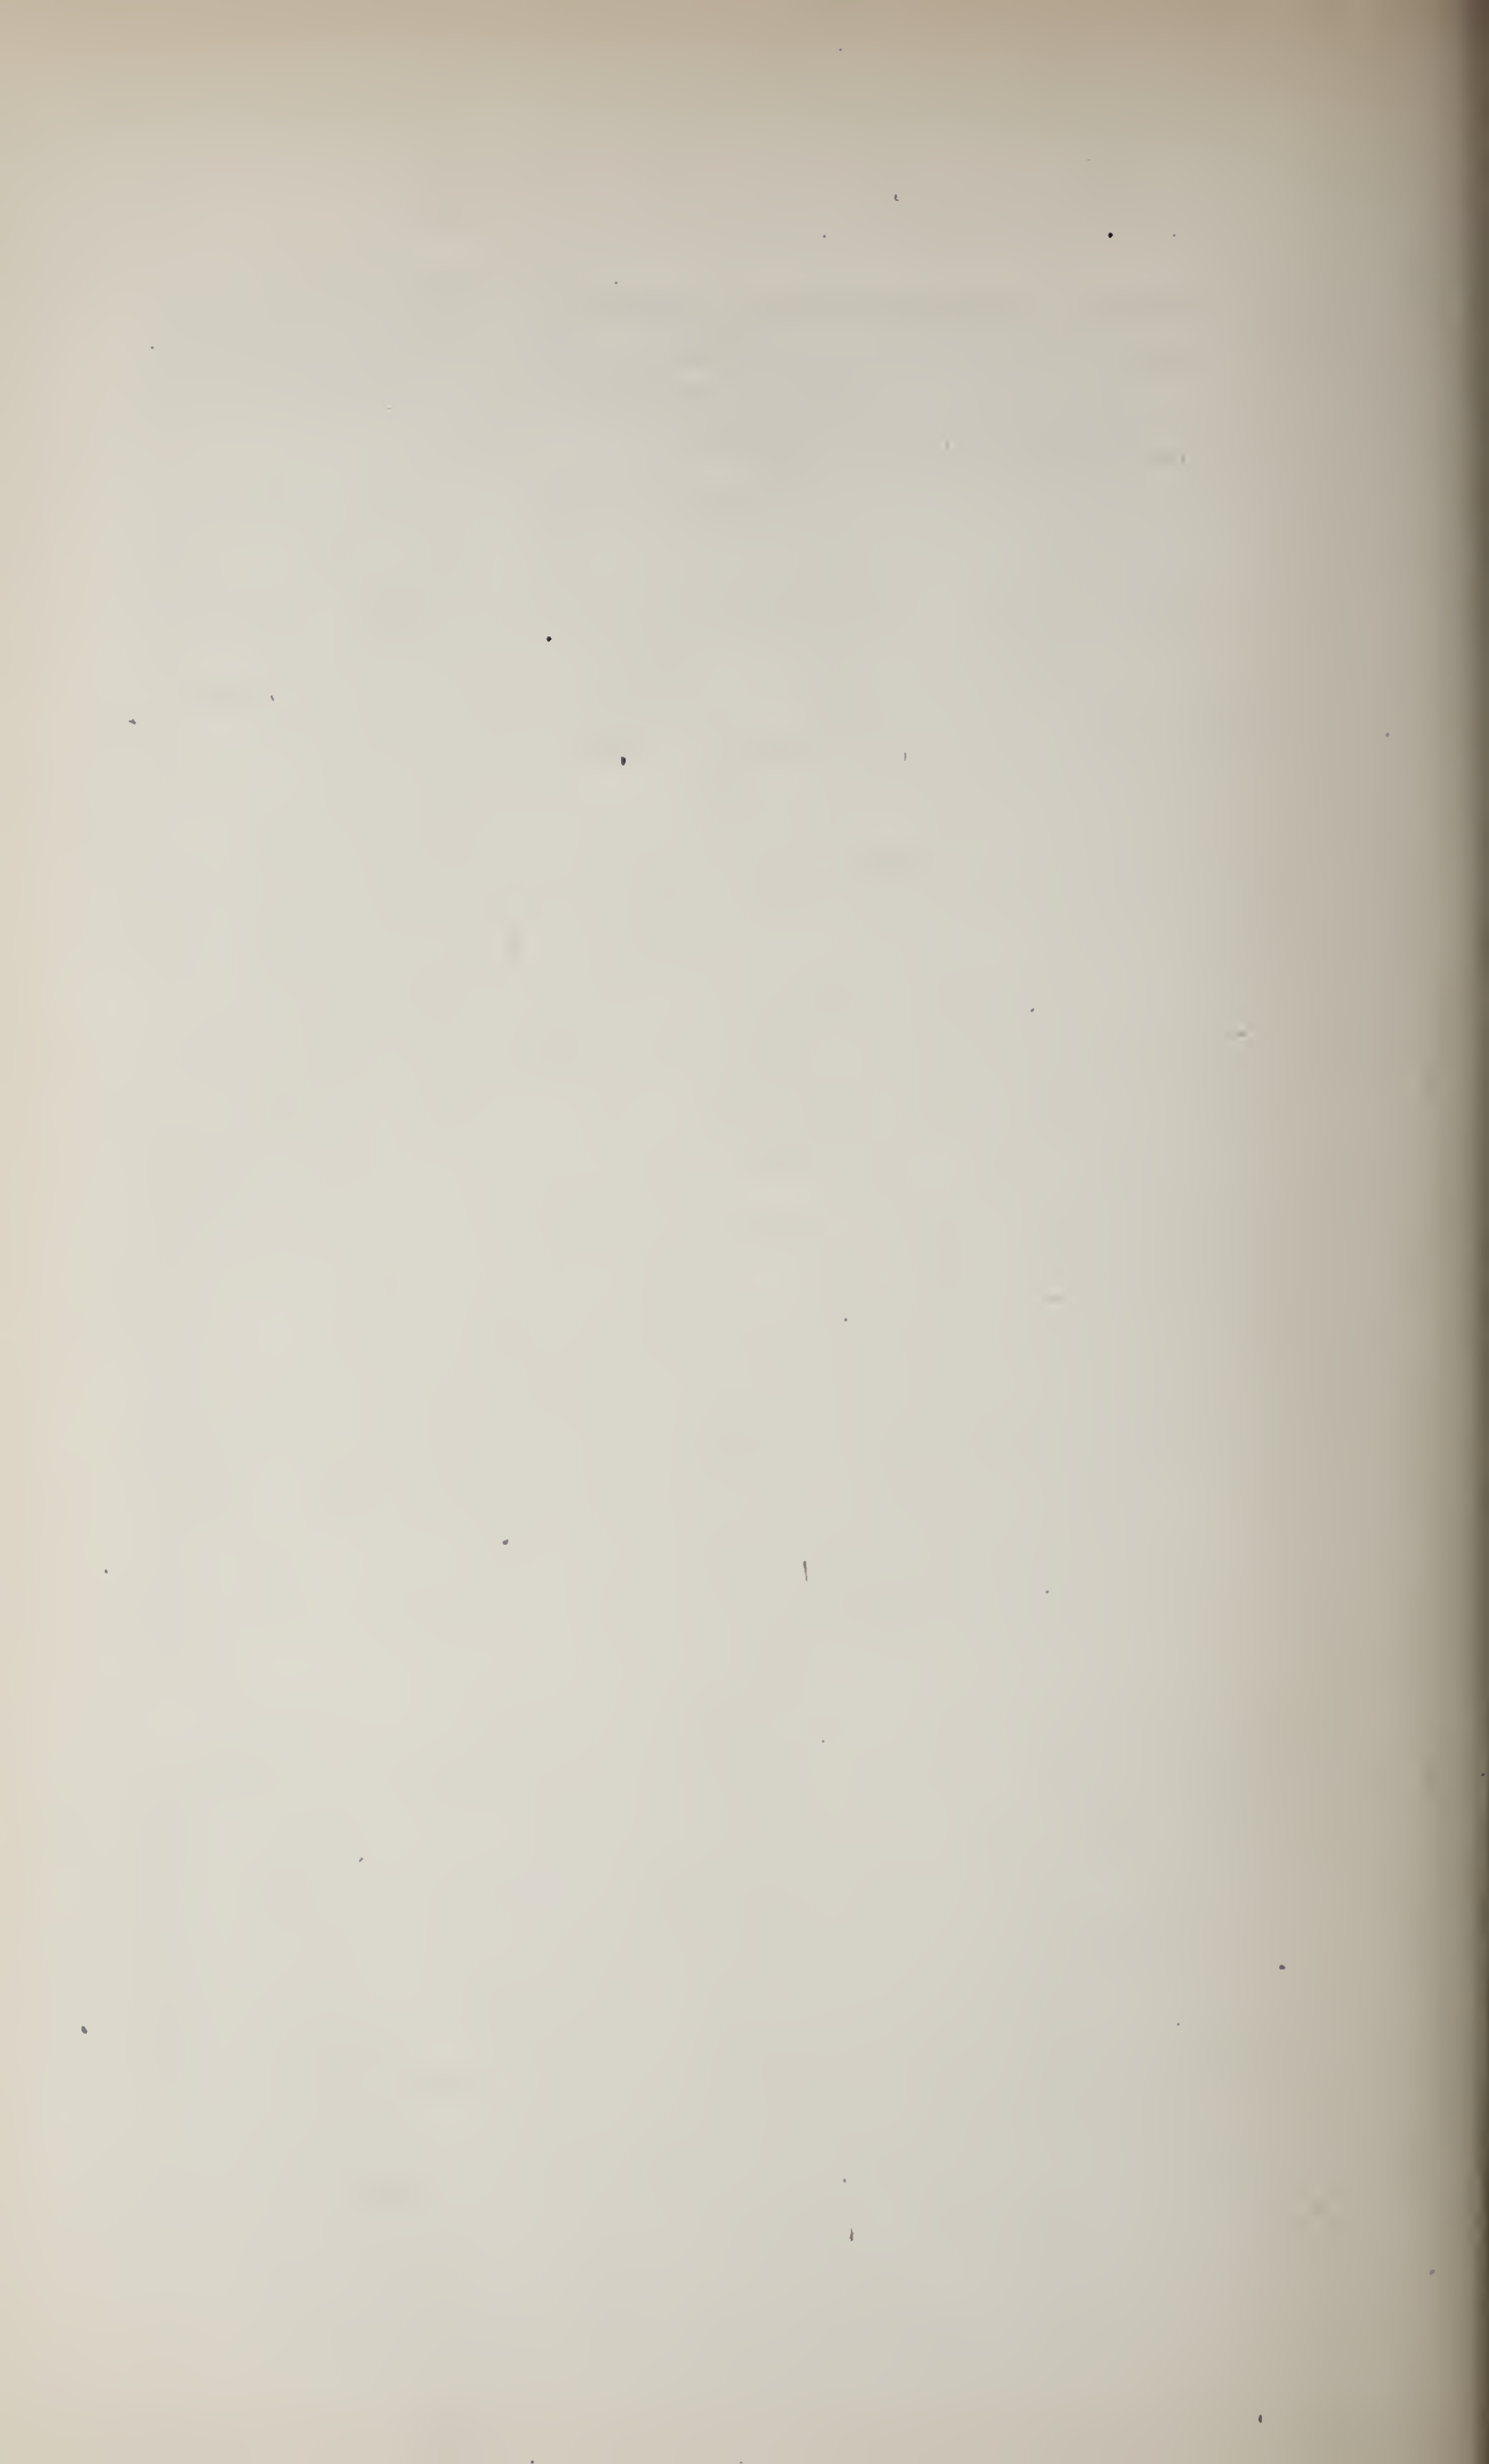

It seems that Adam Coover and Christian Horner were the only persons connected with this transaction who were able to write.

One year later, in 1834, Adam Coover bought forty-one acres of land from Jonas Huber and his wife, Margaret, of Conemaugh Township, Somerset County, for the sum of $200. This document is acknowledged before Samuel Douglass, who at that time was Justice of the Peace in the county, and also witnessed by another party whose signature cannot be deciphered.

Ten years later, William A. Smith, Recorder of the county, testifies that the deed was recorded on New Year's day, 1844.

In 1848 Adam Coover purchased another tract of land consisting of twenty-five acres from David Farner and Susanna, his wife, of Conemaugh township, for the sum of $70. This document is acknowledged before Justice M. Canan, who with W. H. Hamilton, are witnesses of its signing and delivery. The deed is recorded by William Kittell, Recorder.

VIII

Personal Traits and Activities of Adam Coover

The era in which Adam Coover lived was one of simplicity. The homes of the town dwellers had but the conveniences of the country farm house. Public transportation was chiefly by canal. Ten years after Adam Coover came to Conemaugh township, the Johnstown post-office consisted of a bread basket, which held all the mail for the community. Agriculture, wagon making, and carpentry, were the chief industries, in which occupations three sons of Adam Coover were engaged, William, Daniel, and Jacob. Mr. George Brenizer, Sr., who was married to Sarah Coover, Adam Coover's sister, had preceded his brother-in-law in change of residence from Harrisburg to Cambria county.

Just three months after Adam Coover bought his farm from Christian Good, George Brenizer purchased from Peter Levergood a tract of land consisting of 249 acres, located at the mouth of the Little Conemaugh river, and asked his brother-in-law to be his security, to which Adam Coover gave his consent.

Mr. George Brenizer failed to meet his obligation, and in consequence, both he and Adam Coover were financially embarrassed. Pending settlement, George Brenizer died, and the creditors looked to Adam Coover for payment, which he at that time was not immediately prepared to make. The Sheriff of the county graciously allowed Adam Coover to take over the Brenizer property, and make out of it what was financially possible.

Adam Coover let it become known that he would accept "Bedford money" in payment of property purchase, and by this means secured a good price for the property. "Bedford money" was in bad repute, as it would not be accepted at the banks.

However, Adam Coover's confidence that the currency would recover normal value was justified; and he was very materially aided in meeting financial claims.

By selling the Brenizer property, and some of his own, Adam Coover was able to secure sufficient funds to pay off the indebtedness encumbering the estate except $300, which was a considerable sum at that time. Joe Weisel, a hired hand, suggested to Adam Coover that he go to Mr. Weisel's brother-in-law, John Yant, an owner of extensive land estates in Bedford county, and borrow from him what was needed to make full settlement of the Brenizer estate. Following the suggestion of Mr. Weisel Adam Coover applied to Mr. Yant for the loan. Mr. Yant, to whom Adam Coover was a complete stranger, granted the request on condition that Mr. Coover furnish adequate security. Mr. Coover suggested that Mr. Yant name the security himself. Mr. Yant replied, he "guessed 'Squire Chris Horner of Geistown would do." Mr. Yant then made out a promissory note, trustfully gave Mr. Coover $300 and the note to be endorsed by 'Squire Horner, and then to be returned to him.

Of the Brenizer estate there was some land on both sides of what is now Locust street, between Franklin and "Beson" (now Clinton) streets, including the site of the onetime Methodist Episcopal Church and Parsonage. A part of this general plot Adam Coover traded to Christian Good in settlement of accounts.

About the year 1825 this land was laid out into town lots by Christian Good and Adam Coover, and together with a number of other lots in the vicinity, owned by Peter Levergood, was called "New Town" to distinguish it from "Old Town," that part of the town lying west from Franklin street.

Joseph Johns' town then extended from Franklin street to the Point, and lay between the two rivers, Stony Creek and Conemaugh, which section of land was laid out into building lots by Joseph Johns during the latter period of his ownership from 1793 to 1807.

Among original papers in the possession of the late Theodore Cover are discovered the transfers of real estate now comprising the territory of the city of Johnstown, which primitively was called "Conemaugh Old Town." Joseph Johns owned the city site from 1793 to 1807. The following recital of transfers covers the period from 1788 to 1814 in which latter year Adam Coover came to Conemaugh Township and bought of Christian Good 177 acres of land, now comprising "Cover Hill."

April 26, 1788, at Philadelphia, Pa., by patent to James McClanahan;

Sept. 13, 1793, transfer by said James McClanahan to Joseph Johns;

May 2, 1807, transfer by said Joseph Johns to John Anderson and William Hartley;

March 30, 1808, transfer by said John Anderson and Mary, his wife, and William Hartley to John Holliday;

June 21, 1811, transfer by said John Holliday and Mary, his wife, to Peter Levergood;

Aug. 26, 1813, transfer by said Peter Levergood and Susanna, his wife, to Thomas Burrel, George Brenizer, Sr., and George Brenizer, Jr., then reverting on same date

Aug. 26, 1813, through transfer by said Thomas Burrel and his wife, Margaret, George Brenizer, Sr., and Sarah, his wife, and George Brenizer, Jr., and his wife, Elizabeth, to Peter Levergood;

Then said Peter Levergood and Susanna, his wife, transferred to George Brenizer, Sr., for the sum of $254.52 paid, the lot of ground, nine perches from the corner of Franklin and Main, town of Conemaugh, containing three acres and 63 perches.

Aug. 8, 1814. Peter Levergood and his wife Susanna, transferred to George Brenizer, Sr., 249 acres of land, called Conemaugh Old Town, situated on the east side of Conemaugh creek, at the mouth of the little Conemaugh.

George Brenizer, Sr., was unable to meet this obligation, and the county sheriff proceeded to foreclose his estate. Pending this matter, Mr. Brenizer died. Adam Coover had given security for the payment of the Brenizer purchase, and the creditors now came to Adam Coover for settlement of their claims. He was not immediately able to meet the financial obligation, and asked for time to make settlement. The sheriff magnanimously handed over to Adam Coover the whole financial matter, to make out of it what he could.

The settlement of the Brenizer estate brought into the possession of Adam Coover part of the ground of Conemaugh Old Town by the exchange of some of his personal realty for land of the Brenizer estate.

An old diagram contemporaneous with this settlement, gives to Adam Coover about three-fifths of the lot acreage from Franklin Street west to the Point, or the confluence of the two rivers, the Conemaugh and the Stonycreek, one-fifth of said acreage to Christian Good, and one-fifth to Peter Levergood.

It is interesting to note that in this era of meager public education but few people were able to write, as indicated by signatures to legal documents. Neither Trainey, wife of Joseph Johns, nor Susanna, wife of Christian Good, nor Susanna, wife of Peter Levergood, was able to write, but simply made an X mark in signature.

Adam Coover died in 1856, and in 1858 at the final settlement of his estate to his heirs, his total property consisting chiefly in land, exclusive of a house in Kernville, amounted to $12,380, which was a considerable sum eighty-five years ago. His first purchase of land from Christian Good, consisting of 177 acres on "Cover Hill," cost $1,900.

Adam Coover was married in 1807 to Mary Magdalene Basehoar of Lebanon County, and after their marriage they made their residence in Harrisburg, Pa., about four years before the city became the Capital of the State.

For a short time Adam Coover was on the city police force until he became proprietor of a hotel in the city, named the Bren(he)iser House. The building was destroyed by fire, after which he was engaged in the butchering business and the sale of meat. He soon abandoned this enterprise and moved west to Cambria County, where he purchased a tract of land from Christian Good in Conemaugh Township on a site now called "Cover Hill." This farm was the early homestead of Adam Coover's family, several members of which intermarried with the families of Christian Good, and Christian Horner; Alexander, Adam Coover's eldest son, being wedded to Sarah Horner, daughter of Christian Horner; and Amos, Adam Coover's fourth son, being wedded to Susanna Good, daughter of Christian Good.

As early as the year 1823 the Cambria County Treasury began to make small appropriations of money for the public education of children whose parents were unable to pay the tuition costs in the private schools of the county. These public schools were called "pauper schools" and became very unpopular among the citizenry.

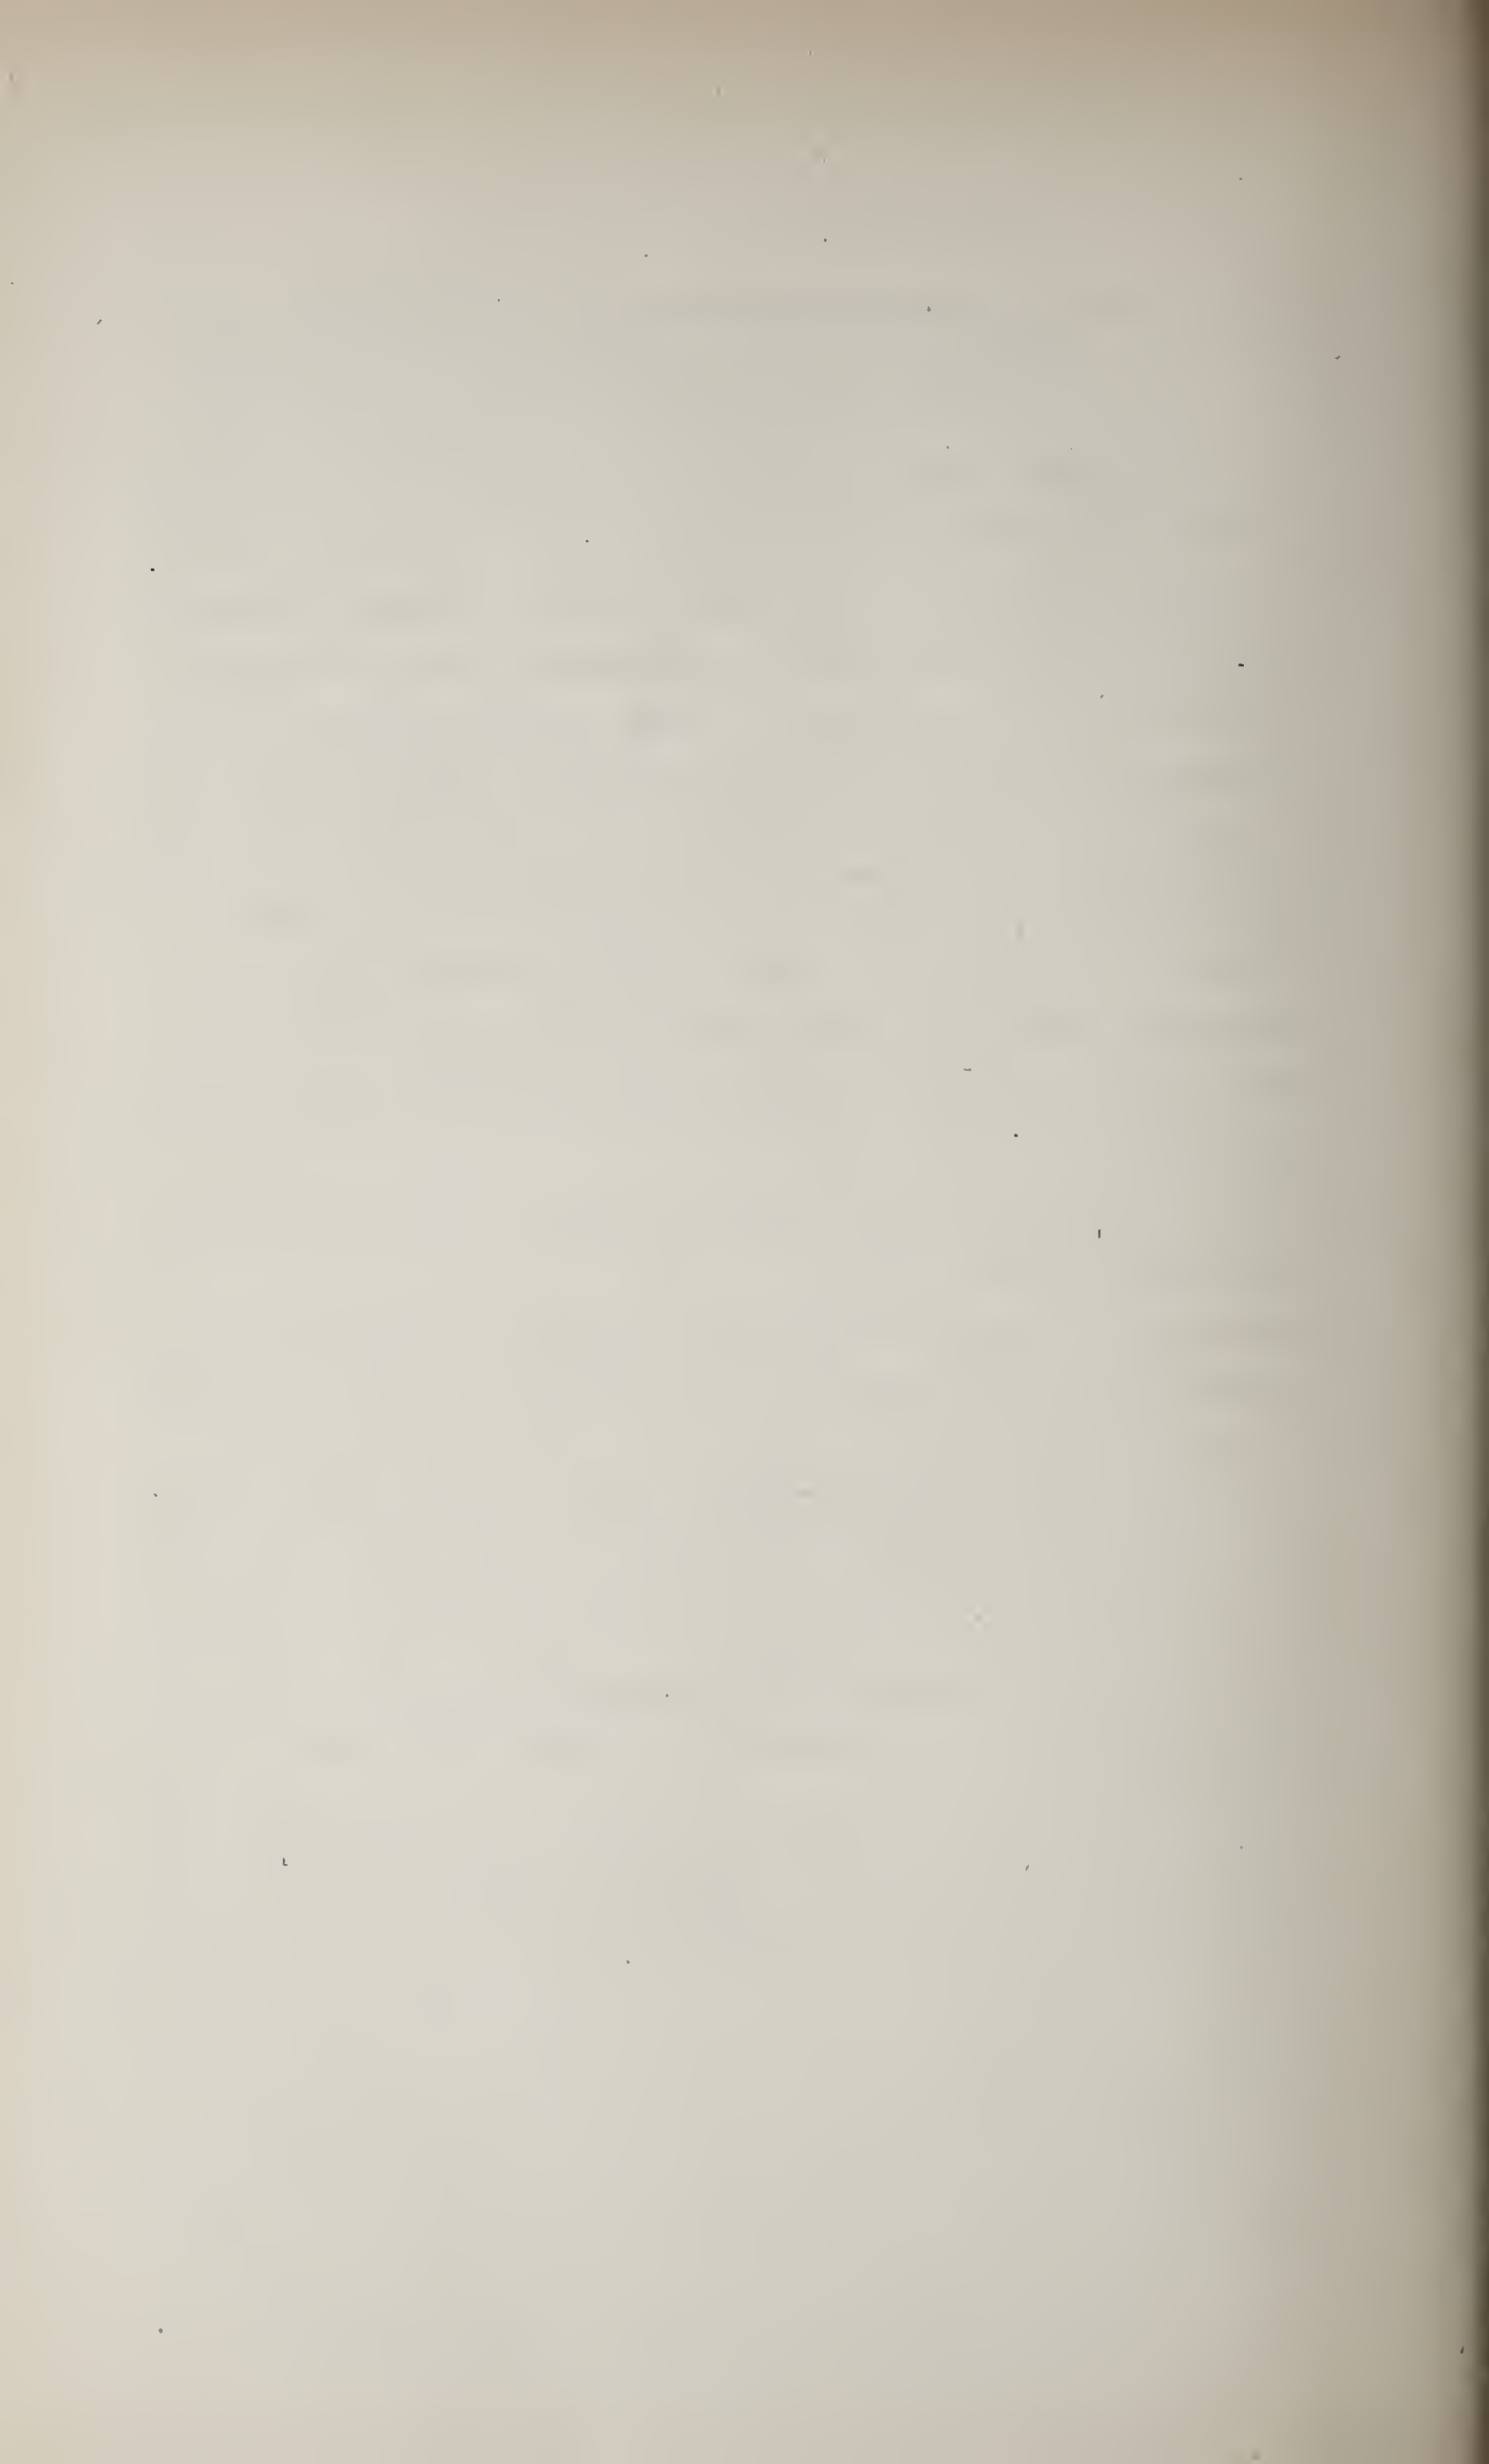

When the free public school system for all pupils in Pennsylvania was adopted in 1834, during the administration of Governor George Wolf, Conemaugh Township was assessed by the Township Commissioners at the rate of six mills. The Commissioners selected Adam Coover as collector of the tax. He collected in 1834 the sum of $388, the assessment in full without exoneration, while the State Appropriation was $73. Adam Coover, together with Peter Levergood, George W. Easley, George Beam, and E. A. Vickroy, served as Board of Directors for Public Schools.

Robert P. Linton was a teacher, and an ardent advocate of free public schools.

Benjamin Benshoof was Assessor at the time, and heartily cooperated with Adam Coover, Collector, and his fellow advocates of public free education in county and township precincts.

In Church and religious affiliation, Adam Coover and his family were all of the Lutheran faith, except Amos Coover, who by marriage, and the leading of his second wife, became a member of the German Baptist denomination. In politics the family was Republican, and subsequent descendants of the family line continue largely in the religious and political affiliation of their progenitors.

The issue of the daily newspaper, the JOHNSTOWN TRIBUNE, dated Tuesday, October 30, 1894, contains an extensive historical record of Adam Coover, and his family.

Singer and Oak Cemeteries

An interesting feature on Cover Hill is a burial plot dating back to a period when first interments in this locality were made in Commonwealth soil about 1790-1800. It is quite possible that previous to this date pioneer settlers were buried here; however, the first inscribed gravestone bears the date 1813, the burial spot of Jacob Good.

David Farner was the patentee of this ground on which this plot is located. On Aug. 18, 1848 Adam Cover purchased from David Farner twenty-six acres of this tract, and David Singer a larger section. The dividing line between these severally purchased tracts runs through the present enlarged cemetery plot. The early burial plot consisting of a half acre of ground lying in the Singer section was called "Singer's Cemetery."

Alexander Cover, son of Adam Cover, donated an acre of ground adjacent to the Singer section, on May 20, 1895, and this enlarged burial plot consisted of one-third part Singer property, and two-third parts of Cover property. The first burial in this enlarged plot was that of Mrs. Grant Custer, April 18, 1895.

Under the energetic management of Theodore Cover, son of Alexander Cover, the cemetery grounds were further enlarged and improved. The east stone wall was built in 1917. In the year 1916 two and one-half acres of additional ground were bought from Worthington Cover, brother of Theodore Cover, for the consideration of $750. This tract was enclosed and improved for burial lots. The cemetery was incorporated in 1925, and titled OAK CEMETERY.

Of the pioneer families of this community whose members rest in this cemetery, the following may be selectively mentioned:

Arthur	Good	Mennelley	Roberts
Beam	Goughnour	(clergyman)	Shoup
Bloom	Harner	and	Shaffer
Cover	Hildebrand	(teacher)	Singer
Fingerhut	Hoffman	Noon	Strayer
Fleishour	Huber	Park	Wissinger

In the month of August 1940 a survey comprising an enumeration of graves was made of the old cemetery plot. The plot was found to contain 459 graves in seventeen rows, beginning with the east section, enumerated as follows:

Row 1, 14 graves	Row 10, 37 graves
Row 2, 53 graves	Row 11, 33 graves
Row 3, 16 graves	Row 12, 18 graves
Row 4, 23 graves	Row 13, 27 graves
Row 5, 14 graves	Row 14, 14 graves
Row 6, 21 graves	Row 15, 19 graves
Row 8, 33 graves	Row 17, 24 graves
Row 9, 31 graves

The driveway to the cemetery is on the road leading from the Frankstown highway to Daisytown.

Founding of Daisytown

A tract of land on Cover Hill, one part located in Conemaugh township, and another part in Stonycreek township, became the site of the borough of Daisytown. This tract was a part of the Adam Cover farm, and was conveyed to his son Daniel.

Daniel Cover and Katy (Catharine) Ann, his wife, sold the tract to Jacob Fend, the deed bearing date Jan. 14, 1871. Ten years later, May 18, 1881, Jacob Fend sold to Theodore Cover, son of Alexander Cover, ten and five-eighths acres of land for the consideration of $1,165, the purchase price and interest amounting to $1,268.39 at the time of settlement.

By the enterprise of Theodore Cover the tract was surveyed, and laid out into lots for building sites, and the prospective village was named DAISYTOWN.

The first lot sold was to B. F. Heidenthal, Jan. 1882, on which a small four-roomed house was built. On April 19, 1882, a lot was purchased by Frank Vogel, on which another four-roomed house was built for the sum of $342.

Within the following ten years sixty-five houses, and a Band-hall were constructed, the houses ranging in price from $210 to $1,100.

At the close of the year 1937 there were in Daisytown ninety dwelling houses, two churches, one three-roomed school house, a fire-hall, and a band-hall.

The area of the village has increased from ten acres to about fifty acres, and the present population numbers about four hundred people.

On January 3, 1898 the town was incorporated into a borough. The highway approach is from the Frankstown road, a piked but unsurfaced roadway a half mile in length.

While yet a youth, about the year 1800, he left Cumberland county in company with his older brother Samuel and settled in Ross county, Ohio.

A credible tradition states that John and Ambrose Coover settled in LeBoeuf Valley in 1802, which district is located in Erie county, embracing Waterford, Pa. This John Coover seems to be identical with the John Coover who left Cumberland county in his youth.

The above copy is an exact reproduction of the engraved tombstone in the Keller-Coover cemetery, called "Barbace," near Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, Pa.

The remains of the four persons which were reinterred in one grave, were those of the parents, and the grandparents of John Coover (1787-1862), who married Salome Keller.

George Coover is the son of John Dietrich (Kober) Coover; and Elizabeth Coover is George's wife, who was Elizabeth Mohler.

Catharine Coover, who died in 1782, was Anna Catharina (Kober) Coover, wife of John Dieterich (Kober) Coover, Palatine immigrant of 1730; and the last engraved name, John Coover, is the name of John Dieterich (Kober) Coover, Palatine immigrant of 1730, who was born in 1703, died in 1791.

George Coover was reinterred thirty-six years after his first interment; Elizabeth Mohler Coover, George's wife, thirty-three years after her death; Anna Catharina (Kober) Coover was reinterred seventy-four years after her first interment; and John Dieterich (Kober) Coover, sixty-five years after his death.

Why they were reinterred can now only be surmised. It was most probably John Coover, grandson of the Palatine immigrant, who made the transfer of the remains of his forebears.

Barbace Cemetery

Barbace cemetery, located near Mechanicsburg, Pa., is an old Keller-Coover burial plot consisting of fifty by seventy-five feet of ground surrounded by a stone wall. In the center of this plot is the decaying stump of a tree, three feet in diameter.

This tree in its early beauty apparently induced the founders to make this spot their burial ground.

When the tree in its decay was felled, the woodman miscalculated the direction of the fall, and evidently the tree trunk crushed three Coover gravestones, which subsequently were cemented together. The burial plot of Martin Keller and family lies at the base of this tree, which in its growth had surrounded and imbedded the gravestone of Hanna Bosler, wife of John Bosler, and daughter of Martin and Salome Keller, to the depth of four inches, obliterating the year-date of her death.

This Hanna Keller Bosler was a sister of Salome Keller, wife of John Coover, both of whom are buried nearby this grave. The tree in the growing expansion of its trunk, also split in two parts the broad gravestone of Salome Keller, wife of Martin Keller. In this cemetery are five Coover graves of pioneer residents. One stone marks the resting place of the remains of four bodies placed in one grave.

A short distance from this Coover plot, and near the Martin Keller group, are the graves of John Coover, 1787-1862 (Son of George Coover, Sr., who was son of Dietrich Kober, Palatine immigrant of 1730), and Salome (Keller) Coover 1792-1883, wife of said John Coover.

Salome Keller Coover was the last person buried in this cemetery, which was closed to burials after 1883.

The farm on which Barbace Cemetery is located was bought by Martin Keller from Simon Grouse, April 10, 1810. The deed describes the land as "Barbace," which was apparently the old name given to the property. When the farm was sold by the Keller heirs, this burial ground was set aside and entailed, and a perpetual right of way for ingress from the public highway, was covered in the deed. Some few years later Walter Lee Kauffman of Youngstown, Ohio, a grandson of Salome Keller Coover, purchased from the then owner of the farm, Mrs. Hummel, a strip of land eighteen feet wide from the public highway to the burial ground, to provide definitely, and to insure, an entrance driveway to the cemetery.

According to tombstone records in Trindle Spring cemetery, near Mechanicsburg, Pa., Henry Coover, Sr., born Feb. 14, 1772, married Catharine Shoufler. A family record located in Ames, Iowa, states that Henry Coover, Sr., married Catharine Young.

This latter record is reconcilable with the name Katharine Jungin, as the name Jungin is the family name Jung with the feminine appellation (in) appended.

But the name Shoufler, if the three names refer to the same individual, can be explained only on the supposition that Catharine Shoufler, who married Henry Coover in the seventeenth year of her age, was an adopted daughter of the Shoufler family, and that the name of her natural parents was Jung, or Young, and the name of her foster parents was Shoufler.

The Cover Family of Somerset County, Pennsylvania

Among property owners taxable in Somerset county, Pa., in the year 1800, we find the names Michael Cover and Jacob Cover.

There is a reliable tradition that the Cover families of Somerset county are descendants of a brother of Gideon Coover, son of Dietrich Kober, Palatine immigrant of 1730.

Gideon Cover's family in its earlier history was located chiefly in Cumberland county, Pa. Gideon's brothers were George, Dietrich, 2d, Michael, Jacob, Adam, and Andrew.

It is probable that the Jacob Cover mentioned as property owner in Somerset county in 1800 was Gideon's brother Jacob, and it is stated in the early history of the county that Jacob Cover settled in this community about 1798. It is possible, however, that a brother of Gideon, other than Jacob, may have been the ancestor of the Somerset county Covers.

Care must be taken at this period of Cover history not to include the family of Cobers in Somerset county whose descent is from Peter Cober and Anne Margaret Shedecker, his wife.

The origin of this family is not yet definitely established; but it is thought that the family came westward from Baltimore, Md., into what is now called Brothersvalley township, Somerset county, sometime during the latter half of the eighteenth century.

An excellent and painstaking genealogy of this family has been compiled by the Rev. Dr. Alvin Alonzo Cober, late of Rochester, N. Y., entitled THE COBER GENEALOGY OF PENNSYLVANIA, IOWA, AND CANADA. Published by the Berlin Press, Berlin, Pennsylvania, 1933.

John P. Cover (1803-1884), grandson of Peter Cober, Sr., adopted the spelling COVER instead of COBER, and his descendants adhere to this form.

FAYETTE COUNTY
PENNSYLVANIA
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

XXIII

The Cover Family of Fayette County, Pennsylvania

On record in the Recorder's office at Uniontown, Fayette county, Pa., are several deeds to tracts of land conveyed to John Cover in the year 1795.

By deed dated July 21, 1795 Francis Fast sold and conveyed a tract of land situate in Springhill township to John Cover for the consideration of $312.37½, containing twenty-five and three-fourths acres and twenty perches.

By deed dated July 25, 1795 Robert Hanna sold and conveyed a tract of land consisting of one hundred and nine and one-fourth acres and thirteen perches, situate in German township, to John Cover of the same township, for the consideration of $2500.

Relevant to these matters, with slight changes in the spelling of the name, John Covern and Christiana Covern sold and conveyed a tract of land situate on the Monongahela river between Jacob's Creek and Catts Run in German township, containing three hundred and twenty acres. The deed was recorded January 20, 1809.

In the genealogy record of the family John Cover, son of Adam Kober and Mahala, his wife, married Christina Ache.

It seems from the traditions of the family that previous to the above mentioned land transfers, an Adam Kober (Cover) settled in this section of Fayette county.

It is not definitely clear whether this Adam Kober was the son of Dieterich Kober, the Palatine immigrant of 1730, or whether he was a descendant of another branch of the family bearing the Kober name.

There arrived at Philadelphia, Pa. on board the ship Edinburg from Amsterdam Sept. 16, 1751, three Palatine immigrants: Adam Kober; Christian Kober; and Hans Adam Kober. The names suggest a father and two sons. It is possible that this Adam Kober was the progenitor of the Cover families of Fayette county.

A suggestive feature in this respect comes to light in the observation that in subsequent years the name Christian, Christie, and Christine, was given to descendant children of Adam Cover in the Cover families of Fayette county, which offers the possibility that these children were descendants of the Palatine immigrant, Adam Kober of 1751, with whom the immigrant Christian Kober was associated.

But whatever may be brought to light by research to solve this matter, we can safely begin with Adam Kober (Cover) as progenitor of known Cover families in Fayette county, Pa.

In order to embody all phases of the question regarding the Cover family in Fayette county, mention should be made of the Adam Cover (Kober) of Lancaster county, traditional son of Dieterich Kober, Palatine Immigrant of 1730.

ADAM COVER, or KOBER, private in the Lancaster county Militia, 1778-1782, 7th Battalion, 5th Company, Class 7.

Captain Noah Ceasy.

In the census of 1790 Adam Cover is reported as resident in Dauphin county.
